Full description:

Internet usage in the classroom has come a long way in the last decade. Today's teachers are expected to be proficient with new technologies and implement new teaching strategies that are designed around the Internet-based lessons. While students in elementary and middle schools around the world have never known a world without the Internet, the same cannot be said for all classroom teachers.

Social media and the Internet can help you connect with other classrooms around your state, country, and the world.

I think that Using Social Media in the Classroom *may provide both an overview of different types of digital technologies as well as constructive guidance on how to safely and intelligently use them as tools for learning.

❖ I THINK THAT TECHNOLOGY CAN BE BEST WEAPON WHICH WE CAN USE TO CHANGE THE WORLD

The best example is this conference where technology is acting as an intermediate between students around world

According to my view there are many ways in which social media can benefit the students and the professional development. Let the ideas and suggestions below inspire you to step outside of your comfort zone and explore sites that can enrich our life and our your effectiveness in the classroom

❖ *Making Class blog could be first step towards innovative use of social media in the class

- A class blog can be a useful tool for sharing what is going on in the classroom. Post updates about upcoming projects, when permission slips are due, and other reminders that may get lost in the shuffle of everyday travels from home to school.
  - Parents can check the blog weekly or daily for updates. We can even post a poll or question on the blog to encourage parents to interact with you and with one another
  - Make the classroom blog a resource for homework reminders. We can Post the daily homework assignment on the blog, so that parents and students can refer to it at night. This may cut down on missed assignments and help students stay on track

So let's move with time –let's move with technology
